In the Wake of the Game By GUS MALBERT

The hole left in the inner defensive works of the Coits by the sale of Freddie Graff has been filled. The weeks of dickering have brought their results, and Steve Griffin announces that Bresnahan—the little essential of giving him a front headle was omitted—brother to the famous Duke Roger J. Bresnahan, will be found at the three-quarter station when the bell taps. The newcomer is just rounding his twenty-third year. This then completes the infield There will be Raiey at first; Griffin at second: Newton at short, and last Bresnahan at third. From appearances at this distance, the infield is probably stronger from an offensive standpoint than any which has started the season for several seasons, pefensively we must see before expressing an opinion.

Ayers goes to Washington, and he will not drift this way again. There is talk that Charlie Strain will stop a while in Washington, giving up professional ball to take a position with the Potomac Electric Power Company, and playing on that team. Wife of Victim Clasps Hands When Murderer Is Convicted. Mobile, Ala., December 6.-Loud

Mobile, Aia. December 6.—Loud applause greeted the Jury's verdict of "first degree murder" in the trial today of William J. Brown for the murder of Alfred Percy. Mrs. Alfred Percy, wife of the victim clapped her hands with delight. "I would not take a thousand dollars for that verdict," she exclaimed a few minutes later. The wife of the accused man simply nodded. Brown killed Percy as the latter stepped from a street car in Oakdale, July 6 last. Brown sat unmoved when the verdict was returned.
"It's all right," he said. "Ill win on my appeal."
